Programme

Start: 11am

End: 6.30pm

The European Community-led Habitat Meeting in Brussels on May 28 is an initiative that aims to provide an informal space of exchange for national/regional federations and networks of community-led housing initiatives, project leaders, professionals and researchers to share their vision and work with their peers at the European level. Despite local specificities and regional differences, several joint initiatives have already been developed at the European level or across several countries (Open Door Days, International Cohousing Conference 2010 in Stockholm, joint research initiatives, among others). These suggest that there is, today, an interest for convergence and collaboration on community-led housing at the European level.

The meeting seeks to provide a platform for defining common objectives, share agendas and establish common actions, and to understand why different actors across Europe are interested in the convergence of civil society movements in the housing and habitat sector.

What can we gain from collaborating? What do we expect? Where are our common grounds? In what ways are we different? At what levels can and shall we collaborate?

The meeting is therefore to be placed in the context of ongoing cross-regional and international dynamics, and shall be understood as a contribution to further enhancing collaboration and convergence at the European level.

The programme is the result of the various inputs and ideas provided by the participants.

Selected projects

La Borda, Barcelona, Spain

The Housing Cooperative “La Borda” originated from an activist movement in “Sants”, a working-class neighbourhood in Barcelona. La Borda seeks to integrate housing with the social economy and the Care economy, and to encourage new models of living in community. It constitutes at the same time the first experience of collective property in the city of Barcelona.

Granby4Streets CLT, Liverpool, United Kingdom

In the context of poverty, social exclusion and top-down approaches towards urban renewal, the inhabitants of Toxteth in Liverpool created the Granby4Streets Community Land Trust to defend their interests., Granby4Streets CLT has successfully negotiated with public actors and social investors to implement participatory urban upgrading and social projects at the benefit of more than 2,000 residents.

Spreefeld, Berlin, Germany

The Building and Housing Cooperative “Spreefeld” is situated in the former ‘no man’s land’ between Eastern and Western Germany. Founded in 2011 and inhabited since 2014, it is a successful example of local resistance to speculative, top-down and large scale area development, and has managed to provide affordable homes and public and semi-public spaces.

Mehr als Wohnen, Zurich, Switzerland

Mehr als Wohnen is a federation of 60 housing cooperatives that planned, financed and managed the construction of an entire neighbourhood, home to 1,100 residents and 150 jobs in the City of Zurich. The scale (cooperative neighbourhood), energy-efficient buildings, social diversity and the predominance of common spaces are but some examples of the innovation at the core of this project.
